Welcome in Napoli, aurorians! Our city offers an incredibly ample variety of accommodations at reasonable prices. Being a very attractive city for tourists, it is necessary to book very well in advance. Prices may vary according to the location and quality of the accommodation, and while compared with other European cities Naples is still relatively cheap, costs of accommodation have unfortunately risen due to the increasing process of touristification. Below you will find very few indications on how to search for an accommodation.

Our Biannual will be held at the Centro Congressi Federico II in the complex at via Partenope 36

The historic center of Naples is the best area to stay in, especially if you are visiting Naples for the first time. It develops around the sub-quarter of Montesanto, Porto, San Ferdinando, and the Decumani area, i.e. San Gregorio Armeno, Spaccanapoli, Piazza del Gesù, and via dei Tribunali.

The other areas near the city center that develop towards the seafront are Chiaia, Mergellina, and Posillipo. Hotels and B&Bs are on average of high quality and therefore generally more expensive.

Equally elegant, though perhaps less expensive than the previous areas, is the Vomero district, located in the hilly area of Naples and easily reached by metro and funicular lines. The quarters of Fuorigrotta and Bagnoli are comfortable and well-served by public transport, however, they are somehow distant from the city center.

Although well-connected and safe, we advise you to avoid the eastern part of the city, near and behind Piazza Garibaldi and the railway station of the same name, as returning in the evening may be uncomfortable.

Here is a list of selected options. We will constantly update this list with new options. If you have trouble finding suitable accommodation or have any doubt about the accommodation you are planning to reserve, do not hesitate to contact us at: aurora.f2@unina.it
